Art Unit: 3723

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims s 1-3, 5, 7-11 and 13-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Takahashi or Blatt (these cited by applicant) alone, or in view of the applicants own disclosure of the prior art. Either Takashi or Blatt teaches covers that may be said to be provided openably/closably inasmuch as the covers may inherently be removed or placed back even though they are not intended to be used that way. However, the applicant's own disclosure of the prior art indicates that the provision of covers openably/closably is conventional. Note for example the teaching in the instant specification at page 1, that the prior art cover can be detached and attached. Accordingly, it would have also been obvious to provide the devices of either Takahashi or Blatt with covers as claimed for the purpose of protecting against contamination entering the clamp body.
4. Claims 4, 6 and 12 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
